NATURE AND STAGE OF PROCEEDINGS

On February 19, 2020—more than two years after filing its original complaint—Genentech made the strategic decision to file a Second Amended Complaint (“SAC”). D.I. 631. The SAC asserted new infringement claims under 35 U.S.C. § 271(g) relating to Amgen’s manufacturing process and its alleged conduct during clinical trials. E.g., D.I. 631, ¶¶ 43, 49, 63, 69, 70, 85–89, 118, 124, 126, 131–132, 135, 139, 143, 148, 165.

Amgen timely answered on March 4, 2020. D.I. 648. The answer included an affirmative defense and counterclaim based on Genentech’s inequitable conduct before the Patent and Trademark Office (“PTO”) when prosecuting the ’869 patent. Id., Affirmative Defenses ¶¶ 28–108, Counterclaims ¶¶ 160–249. Genentech now moves to strike or dismiss Amgen’s inequitable conduct counterclaim and defense. D.I. 657.

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

The arguments that Genentech makes in support of its motion were rejected by this Court just two months ago in a companion case between these same parties. See Genentech, Inc. v. Amgen Inc., 2020 WL 707243 (D. Del. Feb. 12, 2020) (the “Herceptin Case”). In the Herceptin case (like here), Genentech belatedly amended its complaint years after the lawsuit commenced. There (like here), Amgen timely answered Genentech’s amended complaint and included a defense and counterclaim alleging that Genentech committed inequitable conduct by intentionally omitting data from the experiment described in Example 8 of the '869 patent. In the Herceptin case (like here), Genentech moved to strike or dismiss the inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim, arguing: (1) the Federal Rules do not permit Amgen to add new defenses and counterclaims in response to Genentech's amended complaint; and (2) the inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim are inadequately pled. The Court in the Herceptin case rejected both of those arguments and denied Genentech's motion. 2020 WL 707243, at *1.

The Court's decision in the Herceptin case heralds the outcome of Genentech's motion here. In its motion, Genentech argues that Amgen was not permitted to add new defenses and counterclaims when answering the amended complaint. The Court correctly rejected that precise argument in the Herceptin case. As the Court explained, it is well established that the filing of an amended complaint gives a defendant the right to file a responsive pleading, and the defendant is not limited in what it may assert in that responsive pleading. 2020 WL 707243, at *1 ("Amgen's filing of a responsive pleading as of right allows it to bring new counterclaims without regard to the scope of [Genentech's] amendment."). In fact, the Court reminded Genentech's counsel of that rule in the Herceptin case—the same counsel that represents Genentech here—one day before Genentech amended its complaint in this case. See C.A. No. 18-924-CFC, Feb. 18, 2020 Teleconference Tr.

at 17:12–18, attached as Exhibit 1. Genentech thus fully understood that by amending its complaint it would “open[] the door to Amgen filing its counterclaims.”2020 WL 707243, at *1.

Genentech’s challenge to the sufficiency of Amgen’s inequitable conduct allegations was likewise rejected by the Court in the Herceptin case. There, Amgen amended its answer to assert the same inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim based on the same factual allegations as here. Genentech moved to strike or dismiss on several grounds, including that Amgen failed to adequately plead inequitable conduct. The Court denied Genentech’s motion in its entirety, implicitly holding that Amgen’s factual allegations support a viable inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim. 2020 WL 707243, at *1. Since Amgen has asserted the same inequitable conduct allegations here as it did in the Herceptin case, the defense and counterclaim should be sustained for the same reasons they were sustained in the Herceptin case.

ARGUMENT

A motion to strike an affirmative defense under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(f) is generally disfavored. Fesnak & Assoc., LLP v. U.S. Bank. Nat’l Ass’n, 722 F. Supp. 2d 496, 502 (D. Del. 2010). Such a motion should not be granted “unless the insufficiency of the defense is clearly apparent.” Senju Pharm. Co., Ltd. v. Apotex, Inc., 921 F. Supp. 2d 297, 301 (D. Del. 2013) (citing Symbol Techs., Inc.

v. Aruba Networks, Inc., 609 F. Supp. 2d 353, 356 (D. Del. 2009)). When ruling on a motion to strike an affirmative defense, the Court must construe all facts in favor of the nonmoving party and deny the motion “if the defense is sufficient under [the] law.” Symbol Techs., 609 F. Supp. 2d at 356.

“The standards for determining a motion to dismiss a counter-claim are the same as for determining a motion to dismiss a complaint.” Shamrock Holdings, Inc. v. Arenson, 456 F. Supp. 2d 599, 605 (D. Del. 2006). That is, the Court must accept all well-pleaded allegations in the counterclaim to be true and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the counterclaimant. Id. Dismissal is proper only if the counterclaimant “cannot demonstrate any set of facts that would entitle him to relief.” Id.

I. AMGEN’S INEQUITABLE CONDUCT DEFENSE AND COUNTERCLAIM ARE PROPER UNDER RULE 15(A)(3).

Genentech’s primary argument in support of its motion is that Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15 supposedly did not authorize Amgen to add a new defense or counterclaim when responding to the SAC. Opening Br. 2–5. That position flies in the face of Rule 15’s text and longstanding precedent in this Court—including a decision rendered just two months ago in the companion case between these parties.

Rule 15 gives a party the right to respond to an “amended pleading” within fourteen days of service. Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)(3). By its terms, the Rule does not limit the scope of that response. It “does not direct a response to the ‘amendment,’ as it might have, but to the ‘amended pleading’” as a whole. Genentech, 2020 WL 707243, at *1 (quoting Joseph Bancroft & Sons Co. v. M. Lowenstein & Sons, Inc., 50 F.R.D. 415, 419 (D. Del. 1970)). Accordingly, “[i]t has long been the rule in this district that in answering an amended complaint the defendant is free to answer not simply the amendments, but the new complaint, as if answering an original complaint.” Id. (quoting Standard Chlorine of Del., Inc. v. Sinibaldi, 1995 WL 562285, at *2 (D. Del. Aug. 24, 1995)); E.I. DuPont De Nemours & Co. v. Millennium Chems., Inc., 1999 WL 615164, at *4 (D. Del. Aug. 2, 1999); Joseph Bancroft & Sons Co., 50 F.R.D. at 419; see also Berrada v. Cohen, 2017 WL 6513954, at *1 (D.N.J. Dec. 20, 2017). More specifically, it is “well established . . . that a defendant may include counterclaims in its answer to an amended complaint” even if those counterclaims could have been asserted in response to the original complaint but were omitted. DuPont, 1999 WL 615164, at *4 (cited with favor in Genentech, 2020 WL 707243, at *1).<sup>1</sup>

Amgen was thus authorized by Rule 15(a)(3) to assert an inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim when answering Genentech’s SAC. As the Court

<sup>1</sup> As the Court told Genentech in the Herceptin case: “The law has been clear in this district. If Genentech had researched it, it would have easily found that it’s ‘well established’ that the filing of an amended complaint allows under Rule 15 for the as of right filing of an answer, and that it’s well established that our courts don’t limit what can be pled in a filing as of right in response to an amended complaint.” Genentech, Inc. v. Amgen Inc., C.A. No. 18-924-CFC, Feb. 18, 2020 Teleconference Tr. at 17:12–18, attached as Exhibit 1.

explained in the Herceptin Case, by choosing to amend its complaint, Genentech “has only itself to blame” for “open[ing] the door to” Amgen’s defense and counterclaim. 2020 WL 707243, at *1; see also Joseph Bancroft & Sons Co., 50 F.R.D. at 419 (holding that a party filing an amended pleading “can hardly be heard to complain that claims filed against him are improper because they should have been asserted in response to his original pleading”).

Even though the Court’s recent decision in the Herceptin case is directly on point, Genentech relegates its discussion of the decision to a footnote. Opening Br. 3 n.1. In the footnote, Genentech argues that the Court’s Herceptin decision was wrong and that the Court should abandon the well-established rule that it recently reaffirmed. Id.<sup>2</sup> However, the Court was correct in February when it denied Genentech’s motion in the Herceptin case, and it should deny the motion here for the same reasons.

In arguing that the Court was wrong in the Herceptin case, Genentech contends that none of the decisions cited by the Court involved counterclaims first asserted after the deadline to amend. Id. That is false. In Standard Chlorine, the defendants’ counterclaims were filed several months after the deadline to amend pleadings. See Exhibit 2 (Docket Sheet in Standard Chlorine), D.I. 279 (June 16,

<sup>2</sup> Genentech did not move for reargument of the Court’s order in the Herceptin case within 14 days as required by District of Delaware Local Rule 7.1.5.

1994 Deadline to Amend Pleadings), D.I. 379 (Aug. 5, 1994 Third Amended Complaint), D.I. 410 (Dec. 27, 1994 Answer and Counterclaims filed). The Court nevertheless held that the plaintiff's amended complaint opened the door to the defendant's responsive pleading that asserted new counterclaims. Standard Chlorine, 1995 WL 562285, at *2. Moreover, the counterclaims allowed in Standard Chlorine were filed less than two months before trial. See Exhibit 2 at D.I. 406, 412. Here, Amgen filed its inequitable conduct counterclaim and defense more than eight months before trial is scheduled to begin on November 30, 2020.

Genentech's contention that it would be unfairly prejudiced by Amgen's amendment is meritless. Genentech made the strategic decision to introduce new theories of liability into the case by amending its complaint, and it therefore cannot be heard to protest Amgen's assertion of a new defense. See Herceptin Case, 2020 WL 707243, at *1; Joseph Bancroft & Sons Co., 50 F.R.D. at 419. Nor does Genentech require discovery to respond to Amgen's inequitable conduct allegations. The inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim turn on whether the inventors of the '869 patent deliberately withheld data from the PTO. Genentech controls those inventors and possesses all of the information concerning their behavior and their decision to withhold data. D.I. 526 at 9. Genentech's suggestion that it needs to depose "Amgen's scientists" "regarding the data and references at issue" makes no sense because those scientists have no knowledge concerning the inventors' misconduct at the PTO. Opening Br. 4.

The Delaware cases cited by Genentech are distinguishable because they involved purely ministerial amendments. For example, in Teva Pharmaceuticals USA, Inc. v. Forest Laboratories, Inc., the plaintiff amended its complaint solely to add as a party the defendant's wholly-owned subsidiary. 2016 WL 7325511, at *1 n.1 (D. Del. June 16, 2016). The amendment "made no substantive changes" and did not "change[] the theory of recovery or expand[] the scope and nature of the case." Id. The Court did not permit the defendant to assert new invalidity theories in response to the ministerial amendment because the "case is simply too close to trial to add completely new issues without prejudicing Plaintiffs and unduly delaying the litigation." Id.<sup>3</sup>

Similarly, in Sirona Dental Systems, Inc. v. Dental Imaging Technologies Corp., the plaintiff amended its complaint merely to re-name the parties following a merger, remove a parent company as a defendant, and substitute substantively identical reissue patents. 2012 WL 3929949, at *4 (D. Del. Sept. 10, 2012). The defendant was not permitted to assert a new unclean hands defense in response. Id.

<sup>3</sup> The Teva Pharmaceuticals docket sheet, attached as Exhibit 3, reflects that the pretrial conference was held on July 7, 2016, just three weeks after the decision.

The Court held that the defendant could not expand the issues in the case in response to “purely ministerial” amendments. Id.<sup>4</sup>

Here, by contrast, Genentech’s amendments are not purely ministerial. To the contrary, Genentech substantively expanded the scope of the case by adding new infringement claims under 35 U.S.C. § 271(g), new claims of past infringement relating to alleged conduct during clinical trials, and a new willfulness claim. E.g., D.I. 631, ¶¶ 43, 49, 63, 69, 70, 85–89, 118, 124, 126, 131–132, 135, 139, 143, 148, 165. Those substantive amendments opened the door for Amgen to introduce its inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim into the case. Herceptin Case, 2020 WL 707243, at *1.

Indeed, Amgen’s amended answer would be proper even under the so-called “moderate approach” touted by Genentech. Opening Br. 2–5. As Genentech’s own cases show, the “moderate approach” permits a defendant to introduce new <sup>4</sup> Sirona is further distinguishable because the Court’s decision was based on Rule 15(d), not Rule 15(a)(3). Unlike Genentech’s SAC, the amendments in Sirona concerned events occurring after the original complaint was filed and were therefore “supplements,” not “amendments.” Under Rule 15(d), “[t]he court may order that the opposing party plead to the supplemental pleading within a specified time.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(d) (emphasis added). Because the defendant had not secured leave to file its responsive pleading asserting the new unclean hands defense, the Court held the pleading improper under Rule 15(d). Sirona, 2012 WL 3929949, at *4. Genentech did not argue in its opening brief that its SAC is a supplemental pleading under Rule 15(d) (nor could it), and it should not be permitted to raise such an argument for the first time in reply. D. Del. Local Rule 7.1.3(c)(2) (“The party filing the opening brief shall not reserve material for the reply brief which should have been included in a full and fair opening brief.”).

counterclaims when answering an amended complaint as long as the scope of the new counterclaims is proportional to the scope of the new theories in the amended complaint. Slim CD, Inc. v. Heartland Payment Sys., Inc., 2007 WL 2459349, at *6 (D.N.J. Aug. 24, 2007) (“[W]hen the plaintiff’s amended complaint changes the theory of the case, it would be inequitable to require leave of the court before the defendant could respond with appropriate counterclaims.”); see also Unigene Labs., Inc. v. Apotex, Inc., 655 F.3d 1352, 1360 (Fed. Cir. 2011) (district court acted within its discretion in rejecting defendant’s assertion of inequitable conduct in response to amended complaint that “merely renamed the patent in suit post-reexamination” which “did not so materially alter the proceedings as to authorize previously unasserted counterclaims”); Patel v. Pandya, 2016 WL 3129615, at *2 (D.N.J. June 2, 2016) (defendant’s assertion of new counterclaims “clearly exceeded the scope of the minimal changes plaintiffs were allowed to make” in adding two defendants); Upek, Inc. v. AuthenTec, Inc., 2010 WL 2681734, at *3 (N.D. Cal. July 6, 2010) (amended complaint that “did not add new subject matter” did not permit introduction of new counterclaims).<sup>5</sup> Here, Genentech significantly expanded its theory of liability by adding new infringement claims based on alleged activities by

<sup>5</sup> The Upek decision focused on whether the defendant’s amended answer and counterclaims was filed within the time permitted by Rule 15 for affirmative amendments without leave. It did not address whether the defendant’s filing was a proper responsive pleading under Rule 15(a)(3). Id. at *3–5.

Amgen pre-dating the original complaint. E.g., D.I. 631, ¶¶ 43, 49, 63, 69, 70, 85–89, 118, 124, 126, 131–132, 135, 139, 143, 148, 165. Amgen’s addition of a single inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim is at the very least proportional to Genentech’s new allegations.

Finally, the Court’s prior denial of Amgen’s motion for leave to amend its answer is irrelevant. Opening Br. 1–2. In that ruling, the Court found that Amgen failed to show good cause under Rule 16(b) to support amending its answer after the deadline for amended pleadings. D.I. 628 at 2–3. Here, by contrast, Amgen did not attempt to unilaterally amend its answer after the deadline for amending, so Rule 16(b) does not govern. Instead, Amgen filed an answer as of right under Rule 15 because Genentech knowingly “opened the door to Amgen filing its counterclaims.” 2020 WL 707243, at *1. Under this Court’s well-established jurisprudence, Amgen’s inequitable conduct counterclaim and defense are proper responses to the SAC.

II. AMGEN’S INEQUITABLE CONDUCT DEFENSE AND COUNTERCLAIM ARE ADEQUATELY PLED.

Genentech next argues that Amgen’s inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim should be dismissed because they are “legally deficient.” Opening Br. 5. That argument, too, was rejected in the Herceptin case. There, Amgen asserted the same inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim based on the same allegations that the inventors of the ’869 patent withheld material data concerning the experiment described in Example 8 of the patent. Compare D.I. 648, Affirmative Defenses ¶¶ 28–108, Counterclaims ¶¶ 160–249 with C.A. No. 18-924-CFC, D.I. 366, Affirmative Defenses ¶¶ 11–96, Counterclaims ¶¶ 79–85. As here, Genentech moved to strike or dismiss the inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim as insufficiently pled. C.A. No. 18-924-CFC, D.I. 442, at 18–20. The Court denied Genentech’s motion and, in so doing, implicitly rejected Genentech’s challenge to the adequacy of the inequitable conduct allegations. 2020 WL 707243, at *1. The same result is warranted here.

An inequitable conduct claim is adequately pled if there are allegations from which a reasonable jury could conclude that an individual associated with the filing and prosecution of a patent application made an affirmative misrepresentation of material fact, failed to disclose material information, or submitted false material information with the intent to deceive the PTO. Exergen Corp. v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 575 F.3d 1312, 1327 n.3 (Fed. Cir. 2009). Amgen has plead those requisite facts here.

As alleged in the amended answer, the inventors of the ’869 patent deliberately withheld data from the experiment described in Example 8, which, if disclosed, would have shown that they did not discover a method to prevent disulfide bond reduction as claimed in the patent. D.I. 648, Affirmative Defenses ¶¶ 28–108, Counterclaims ¶¶ 160–249. At least three Genentech presentations and the Trexler-

Schmidt 2010 article show that the inventors of the '869 patent possessed the complete set of data points for the nitrogen sparging control experiment described in Example 8. D.I. 648, Affirmative Defenses, ¶¶ 37–43. Moreover, at least two Genentech documents confirm that one of the inventors, Ms. Schmidt, was aware that the antibody in the air-sparging experiment in Example 8 reduced and re-oxidized, which the patent distinguishes from the prevention of the reduction of disulfide bonds. D.I. 648, Affirmative Defenses, ¶¶ 30, 44, 105.

Ms. Schmidt testified that she was responsible for Example 8 and Figure 20 in the '869 patent application and that she deliberately deleted the six data points in the nitrogen control experiment before submitting the application. See Exhibit 4 (10/1/2019 30(b)(6) deposition) at 32:8–34:3. She further admitted that: (a) the claims of the '869 patent are directed to the prevention of the reduction of a disulfide bond, which she explained was different from the reduction and re-oxidation of a disulfide bond (id. at 20:11–21:9; 24:11–21); and (b) the only data in the patent for air sparging showed a reduction and re-oxidation (i.e., there was no data that shows a prevention of the reduction of a disulfide bond) (id. at 63:25–65:3, 66:8–67:14, 219:4–12, 220:25–221:10). That testimony establishes that Ms. Schmidt not only withheld material data from the PTO, but she intentionally did so. In its opening brief, Genentech never confronts Ms. Schmidt's deliberate decision to delete the data from the patent application. The deliberateness of the data deletion, and the tacit acknowledgement of its materiality by its inclusion in the Trexler-Schmidt 2010 paper, satisfy the pleading requirement for materiality and intent to deceive. See Delano Farms Co. v. Cal. Table Grape Comm’n, 655 F.3d 1337, 1350 (Fed. Cir. 2011) (holding that an inequitable conduct claim is viable if a reasonable jury could infer from allegations that an inventor knew of material information but decided not to disclose it with deceptive intent); Cargill, Inc. v. Canbra Foods, Ltd., 476 F.3d 1359, 1364 (Fed. Cir. 2007) (“[A]n intent to deceive is usually inferred from the facts and circumstances surrounding the conduct at issue.”); Wyeth Holdings Corp. v. Sandoz, Inc., 2012 WL 600715, at *8–9 (D. Del. Feb. 3, 2012) (explaining that standard for pleading inequitable conduct claim is “whether the facts as pled give rise to a reasonable inference that material information was misrepresented with the specific intent (i.e., as the result of a deliberate decision) to deceive the PTO”), report and recommendation adopted, 2012 WL 749378 (D. Del. Mar. 1, 2012).

Genentech contends that it did not misrepresent any facts about the nitrogen-control experiment but instead merely offered attorney argument about the implications of the study. Opening Br. 6–7. That argument ignores the allegations showing that the inventors intentionally omitted data and misrepresented the negative nitrogen control—information that, if disclosed, would have undercut the attorney argument Genentech was making. The inventors’ omission and misrepresentation of material information and data constitute inequitable conduct and distinguish this case from those cited in Genentech's motion, where courts held that attorney argument based on a complete record did not constitute inequitable conduct. Id. (citing cases). It is a far different scenario for an attorney to make legal arguments based on data in the possession of the examiner versus what occurred here—where the proffered arguments were contradicted by data that was deliberately withheld from, and misrepresented to, the examiner.<sup>6</sup>

Genentech further argues that the intentional withholding of data was absolved by the belated submission of the Trexler-Schmidt 2010 article in an information disclosure statement ("IDS") six years after the submission of the patent application. The IDS did not cure Genentech's inequitable conduct, however. To cure a misrepresentation that a patent applicant is aware of during prosecution, the applicant must: (1) "expressly advise the PTO of its existence, stating specifically wherein it resides;" (2) advise the PTO "what the actual facts are" "if the misrepresentation is of one or more facts," "making it clear that further examination in light thereof may be required if any PTO action has been based on the misrepresentation;" and (3) "establish patentability of the claimed subject matter" "on the basis of the new and factually accurate record." Rohm & Haas Co. v. Crystal Chem. Co., 722 F.2d 1556, 1571–72 (Fed. Cir. 1983). Genentech did none of those things. It did not advise the PTO of the missing data points or the fact that the antibody in the air-sparging experiment reduces and re-oxidizes, and it did not establish the patentability of the claimed subject matter in view of the missing data points. Ms. Schmidt confirmed each of these points. See Exhibit 4 at 51:14–52:5; 55:10–56:22. A patent applicant cannot cure a misrepresentation that it knew about during prosecution simply by submitting an article as part of a voluminous IDS. See Bristol-Myers Squibb Co. v. Rhone-Poulenc Rorer, Inc., 2002 U.S. Dist. Lexis 480, at *57–58 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 15, 2002) (“mere listing of [article at issue] as one of six disclosed articles in a[n] . . . information disclosure statement and provision of [the article] . . . is insufficient under Rohm & Haas Co. to cure . . .”). Genentech has pointed to nothing in the record showing that it took the steps necessary to inform the PTO that it had previously withheld material information. It therefore did not cure its inequitable conduct as a matter of law.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Amgen respectfully requests that the Court deny Genentech’s motion to strike or dismiss the inequitable conduct defense and counterclaim.

1 for the call.

2 As your Honor knows, the case is scheduled
3 currently for trial to start on April 20th. Where we are in 4 the case, fact and expert discovery on issues related to 5 liability has been closed for months. The trial was moved 6 at Amgen's election and we're engaged solely with respect to 7 damages discovery at the moment.

8 Last week, Your Honor, and this is the reason
9 that we asked for the call, we received Your Honor's ruling
10 denying our motion to strike, and we viewed that, Your 11 Honor, as a procedural ruling that Amgen is procedurally
12 allowed to respond how it chooses to to our amended
13 pleadings. However, we did not view that ruling, especially 14 at the late stage of the case here, as altering records on 15 invalidity issues and Your Honor's prior rulings on those 16 issues, including discovery.

17 And as Your Honor will recall, last October 18 there was a significant hearing on issues relating to 19 Amgen's effort to inject the derivation, improper
20 inventorship issue into the case. That was on October 16th.
21 It happened in conjunction with the hearing on the Kao
22 issue.

23 Your Honor, during that hearing, you denied
24 Amgen's request to take discovery relating to those new 25 defenses as untimely. Specifically, you denied their

6 THE COURT: All right. Good morning, counsel.

7 (Counsel respond, "Good morning, Your Honor.")

8 THE COURT: So we've got Mr. Silver for the 9 plaintiffs?

10 MR. SILVER: We do, Your Honor, and I'm joined 11 by Mr. Gunther, Mr. Stern, Ms. Lin and Ms. Passamaneck.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. SILVER: On behalf of Genentech.

14 THE COURT: All right. And then Mr. Belgam?

15 MR. BELGAM: Good morning, Your Honor. Neal
16 Belgam for Amgen. I have Dan Knauss, Michelle Rhyu and 17 Christopher Mead on for Amgen.

18 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Silver, you asked
19 for the call, so do you want to go first?

20 MR. SILVER: Yes, Your Honor. I'm going to hand
21 it over to Mr. Gunther if that's okay.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MR. SILVER: Thank you.

24 MR. GUNTHER: Good morning, Your Honor. It's 25 Bob Gunther. Thanks for taking the time and making the time

1 request to take the deposition of Dr. Leyland-Jones on the 2 issue of derivation and improper inventorship. You denied
3 it untimely there, the request to redepose one of the 4 inventors on the patent, Hoffman. And you also denied their 5 request for additional document discovery as untimely.

6 We viewed that ruling on October 16th as a 7 substantive ruling and it carried forward in the case. We 8 did not think Your Honor would foreclose discovery
9 concerning those defenses on derivation/improper
10 inventorship because those requests were made too late and 11 then allow Amgen to bring that evidence forward at trial and 12 effectively surprise us.

13 Amgen is taking a different view of your 14 ruling on the motion to strike, Your Honor. They've 15 informed us they believe that the import of your ruling is 16 that they can call Dr. Jones, Leyland-Jones, as a witness
17 at trial and put in other evidence on these defenses
18 notwithstanding your October 16th denial of discovery on 19 these issues.

20 And so the reason that we actually requested the 21 call, Your Honor, is to seek clarity on whether the 22 procedural ruling from last week alters in any way Your 23 Honor's ruling last October denying Amgen's request for 24 discovery on derivation and improper inventorship as 25 untimely.

1 If not, if your ruling last week did not alter
2 the rulings in October, which we believe ought to be the 3 case, then fine. We can go forward with the existing trial
4 date. We can finish up the damages discovery and try the 5 case starting on April 20th.
6 If the Court were inclined, however, to allow 7 them to put on evidence relating to these defenses to 8 effectively stand or change the record and deviate from 9 the rulings that were made last October, then we think
10 we would need to talk about what the trial date needs
11 to move to allow Genentech time to conduct discovery into 12 these defenses that were only added to the case very 13 recently.
14 And so, Your Honor, I'm prepared to go further 15 on that, but I wanted to let you know at the outset the 16 reason for the call, and I can go into further detail if you
17 would like at this point.
18 THE COURT: Well, let me just get some 19 clarification. So you're telling me that on October 16th I 20 denied Amgen's request to take discovery with respect to 21 derivation and what else?
22 MR. FLETCHER: Improper inventorship, Your 23 Honor.
24 THE COURT: And improper inventorship. Okay.
25 And I denied it as untimely. Is that right?

1 from taking discovery, so you're saying they can't assert
2 the defense at trial that --
3 MR. GUNTHER: Well, Your Honor, I think what I'm 4 saying is, and, again, we're not asking you to necessarily 5 reconsider your ruling from last week.
6 THE COURT: I'm not going to reconsider. I will 7 just tell you right now, I'm not going to reconsider my 8 ruling from last week, so let's forget that. Go ahead.
9 MR. GUNTHER: Yes, yes. And we're not, just to 10 be clear, we're not asking you to do that. But what we are 11 saying is that while you ruled as a procedural matter that 12 these defenses can be part of the case, we also think that 13 you had previously ruled that the evidence relating, certain 14 evidence relating to those defenses that they were trying to 15 take discovery on, that is Dr. Leyland-Jones, further 16 discovery from Dr. Hoffman, further document discovery,
17 effectively, you ruled all of that as untimely.
18 And so our position is that while these are now
19 part of the case, these defenses as a procedural matter,
20 that they should be -- that we all should be sort of living
21 in the world that we've been living in since last October, 22 which is discovery relating to those defenses has been 23 denied as untimely.
24 THE COURT: Well, but I guess where I'm 25 struggling, Mr. Gunther, is that it doesn't seem to me that

1 MR. GUNTHER: That's correct, Your Honor.
2 THE COURT: All right. And then subsequent to 3 October 16th is when you all agreed that Genentech could 4 file a third amended complaint. Is that right?
5 MR. FLETCHER: Actually, Your Honor, it happened
6 before October 16th, and the amended complaint was filed on
7 September 4th.
8 THE COURT: Okay.
9 MR. FLETCHER: Their answer to the amended
10 complaint raising the new derivation, improper inventorship
11 and inequitable conduct defenses was filed on
12 September 24th.
13 And so we went into the hearing with those, with 14 them having just sort of added those defenses to their 15 answer and counterclaims.
16 We had told the Court at that point that we 17 would be filing a motion to strike those defenses, which I
18 believe we filed the day before the October 16th hearing,
19 and then we refiled those shortly after the hearing. So,
20 Your Honor, at least, although it was relatively close in 21 time to the October 16th hearing, they had a few weeks
22 before to put in their amended pleadings with their 23 additional defenses.
24 THE COURT: Got you. All right. And what you
25 want is that you want to say that, look, I precluded them

1 my two rulings are necessarily at odds with each other. In 2 other words, I have apparently, because I don't recall this,
3 but I apparently denied Amgen the ability to take certain
4 discovery, but I did not deny Amgen the ability to go
5 forward with a defense based on whatever they have in their 6 possession, custody and control. And so I guess -- I mean,
7 it seems to me it could be perfectly consistent with both 8 rulings to allow Amgen to put on whatever case it wants to,
9 but it's not going to have the benefit of a deposition of 10 Dr. Leyland-Jones, or Dr., is it Banfrom, or something like 11 that, and the document discovery they otherwise would have 12 liked to have taken.
13 Now, maybe Amgen doesn't want to do that. I can 14 ask them, but I guess I'm just trying to understand why my 15 ruling that apparently denied them affirmative discovery
16 requests precludes them from going forward with whatever 17 information and evidence they already have.
18 MR. GUNTHER: Your Honor, I don't think your 19 rulings are necessarily inconsistent, but I do think there's 20 an important sort of (inaudible) that comes out of both of 21 those rulings, which is that given that discovery was denied 22 relating to these issues and given that the parties had 23 moved forward since that October 16th hearing focused 24 entirely on issues relating to damages, that one of the 25 things that would happen if they were able to, say, call

1 Dr. Leyland-Jones at trial is that we've had little
2 opportunity even to take his deposition or take discovery
3 relating to that issue.
4 And, in addition, had this issue been in the 5 case in a timely fashion, we certainly could have -- would 6 have done a lot of different things in terms of potentially 7 adding additional witnesses that we might want to bring
8 forward on these issues of derivation and improper
9 inventorship.
10 We might -- we would want, for example, to --
11 right now we're relying on the priority date of the dosing
12 patents in terms of our invalidity case for date of 13 invention, but if, in fact, derivation and improper
14 inventorship are going to be in the case, we would want 15 to be able to establish an earlier date of invention, which 16 we believe we can do in order to deal with these new 17 defenses.
18 THE COURT: Well, let me --
19 MR. GUNTHER: We also --
20 THE COURT: Wait.
21 MR. GUNTHER: Yes.
22 THE COURT: You've got a lot of information
23 packed in there.
24 MR. GUNTHER: Yes, sir.
25 THE COURT: So these issues weren't removed from 11

1 the case. There was an answer, and as of October 16th, I
2 guess you told me you were going to file a motion to strike,
3 but they weren't struck.
4 And let me actually ask you this, and I would 5 like an immediate answer to this and then we can talk about 6 the other subjects.
7 MR. GUNTHER: Yes.
8 THE COURT: I'm assuming since I had to have a
9 hearing on this on October 16th, that Genentech didn't want
10 Dr. Leyland-Jones to be deposed. In other words, you
11 opposed his deposition by Amgen. Is that right?
12 MR. GUNTHER: That's correct.
13 THE COURT: Okay. So I mean, you know, part of 14 this is we all make choices. You guys inundate the Court
15 literally with monthly discovery hearings, with literally
16 dozens and dozens of discovery issues. Nobody can keep up
17 with it let alone one Magistrate Judge and one District
18 Court Judge.
19 You can't assume as a litigant which way the 20 Court is going to rule when there's a pending motion before 21 it. I mean, so the fact that Genentech decided to take the 22 risk of precluding Amgen from deposing Dr. Leyland-Jones
23 when the Court had not made a ruling on whether or not 24 Amgen would be allowed to go forward with its answer to 25 the third amended complaint, I mean, is a risk that

1 Genentech took, and it is represented by sophisticated
2 counsel and shouldn't have made any assumptions. And we 3 are where we are.
4 Let me hear from Amgen.
5 MR. GUNTHER: Your Honor, I -- I'm sorry?
6 THE COURT: Let me hear from Amgen first. Maybe
7 Amgen doesn't want to go forward with the trial and maybe
8 they don't want to present testimony on this and witnesses.
9 Let me hear what their position is.
10 MR. KNAUSS: Good morning, Your Honor. This is 11 Dan Knauss for defendant.
12 You won't be surprised that we actually agree
13 with your view on this, that the rulings are not 14 inconsistent with each other. Genentech is now seeking a 15 motion in limine or to maybe reopen discovery. Those issues 16 weren't before you in October, and so our basic position is 17 that these issues would have been in the case.
18 Leyland-Jones was added. The derivation and 19 incorrect inventorship defenses have been in our contention
20 interrogatories honestly since September and October, and as 21 you said, Genentech took a risk, you know. Your ruling is 22 going to go one of two ways on the motion to strike.
23 And so for them to now say they have no
24 opportunity to take the Leyland-Jones deposition and they 25 actually went to court to stop it is surprising. And so we

13

1 do not view (inaudible). There is no motion before you. We
2 are ready for trial.
3 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Gunther, anything
4 else?
5 MR. GUNTHER: Your Honor, I would say that, you
6 know, essentially, what happened in October and I think
7 that, Your Honor, it is really important to put ourselves
8 back in time in terms of what was happening then. We were a 9 couple of months from trial at that point. They were trying 10 to bring this new evidence forward with respect to 11 derivation and with respect to improper inventorship, and 12 part of what our whole thrust back in October at the hearing
13 was that that discovery, their effort to bring that 14 information forward was untimely. That was in the context 15 of their request to take a deposition and to get additional 16 information, but, Your Honor, I think it's fair to say that 17 what we were pushing back at was that this evidence was 18 being introduced too late in the case.
19 And, Your Honor, if you would look, for example,
20 at pages 207 -- I know you probably don't have it.
21 THE COURT: Actually, I will tell you what I'm 22 going to do. Hold on a second. Am going to put you on hold
23 for probably a minute. I'm going to pull up the transcript, 24 so hold on.
25 MR. GUNTHER: Thank you, your Honor.

1 (Pause.)
2 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Gunther, I have the 3 transcript. What page?
4 MR. GUNTHER: Thank you, your Honor. It starts,
5 the discussion starts on page -- of the whole thing, starts
6 on page 194, but I think the relevant rulings that you make 7 are on 207 and carry over onto 208.
8 THE COURT: Okay. I've just read it and I
9 denied it as untimely consistent with what you described,
10 and so it doesn't -- having read it, it does not strike
11 me --
12 MR. GUNTHER: Your Honor, can I just --
13 THE COURT: Yes. Go ahead.
14 MR. GUNTHER: Your Honor, I'm sorry. So, Your 15 Honor, here is kind of the fundamental position from us.
16 Discovery had closed, fact discovery had closed
17 on all issues in June of last year. This arose -- now, they 18 started to try to take discovery themselves. We have no
19 basis to take discovery after the fact relating to these 20 issues.
21 Fact discovery was closed. They were making
22 efforts to take discovery on these issues. We opposed that 23 as untimely. You agreed with us. And so now we're in the 24 position where they've never asked to reopen discovery.
25 You know, well, the one time they asked to reopen discovery

1 and that culminated in the October 16th hearing, you denied
2 it. And so now what we have is a record that has been 3 developed where there's effectively no discovery that has 4 been taken with respect to these issues.
5 And we don't think, again, in terms of choices
6 that we made, and I understand where Your Honor is coming
7 from with respect to that, but you also, I think, have to 8 keep in mind, Your Honor, that the choices we made were 9 dictated by the fact that discovery had long ago closed. We 10 believed that whether or not these defenses were as a
11 procedural matter going to be allowed in the case later
12 depended on the motion to strike.
13 Remember, they only brought up these issues of 14 derivation and improper inventorship after the close of fact
15 discovery in June. So from our perspective, we had no
16 reason to try to reopen things or rock the boat. Our view 17 was discovery was closed. You had denied their attempt to 18 reopen discovery on the issues.
19 And so in terms of choices that we made, we 20 essentially were just complying with the rulings that had 21 been made to date and the discovery that had been cut off.
22 And effectively, Your Honor, what we think is going on here,
23 and that they are trying to now take the ruling that you
24 made last week and kind of then turn everything on its head
25 and basically say, well, we can call people like

1 Leyland-Jones at trial and sort of ha-ha, Genentech, because 2 discovery closed a long time ago, you don't get a chance to 3 depose that person. You don't get a chance to further 4 develop the record on these defenses that came up for the 5 first time after the close of fact discovery. You don't get 6 to put in expert opinion with respect to these issues.
7 And so what we're left with, Your Honor, is kind
8 of like -- and, again, I'm not blaming this on the Court, 9 but given the way this has come up, this would be a trial by 10 surprise where the rulings that you've made previously
11 denying discovery and basically saying that June was the end
12 of discovery and holding to that are now being turned on its 13 head, and we're being placed in the position where we have 14 to go to trial on defenses with no discovery at all and with 15 no ability to develop the record, and we just really think 16 that's unfair.
17 THE COURT: All right. And just so I'm really 18 clear, fact discovery ended in June of 2019. Is that 19 correct?
20 MR. GUNTHER: Yes, sir.
21 THE COURT: And Genentech decided to file a
22 third amended complaint in September of 2019. Correct?
23 MR. GUNTHER: That's correct, Your Honor. And,
24 again, just by way of explanation, because a lot of water
25 has gone under the bridge between now and then. That was

17

1 simply as a result of their at risk launch to add a claim
2 for damages for the adverse launch and a demand for a jury
3 trial, and those were the only amendments that we made to 4 the complaint.
5 THE COURT: Well, you know, they call it the 6 launch at risk for a reason, and when you file a third
7 amended complaint, I guess you do it somewhat. If you do it
8 after discovery, you do it at risk. And that's what 9 Genentech did in this case. It didn't have to inject
10 damages into the case. It did decide to do that. It filed
11 a third amended complaint at risk.
12 The law has been clear in this district. If 13 Genentech had researched it, it would have easily found that 14 it's "well established" that the filing of an amended
15 complaint allows under Rule 15 for the as of right filing of 16 an answer, and that it's well established that our courts
17 don't limit what can be pled in a filing as of right in 18 response to an amended complaint.
19 So I don't know that I have a formal 20 application, but to the extent Genentech is seeking to 21 preclude the introduction of evidence at trial on defenses
22 that have been fairly pled, it's denied, and to the extent
23 Genentech is seeking to delay trial, it's denied.
24 MR. GUNTHER: Your Honor, this is Bob Gunther.
25 I appreciate those rulings.

1 Your Honor, one question. Can we -- with the 2 current trial date, we would request that discovery be
3 opened, reopened on these issues to allow us to depose
4 Dr. Jones and to do whatever else we need to do to meet
5 these defenses. We recognize you're not going to meet the 6 trial date, but we do think as a matter of fundamental 7 fairness, we ought to have an opportunity to address the 8 defenses.
9 THE COURT: And that's denied as well unless 10 Amgen will agree to it, and the reason why is because you
11 made me rule on October 16th that Amgen could not seek or 12 obtain that deposition, and so you can't come to the Court
13 now on the eve of trial and ask for the same deposition.
14 Again, you know, you take positions in litigation. You've 15 got to pay the consequences.
16 So I will hear from Amgen. If Amgen wants to 17 have a deposition of Dr. Jones and you can agree to it, but,
18 no. You can't. I mean, you shouldn't have opposed it on 19 October 16th.
20 MR. KNAUSS: Your Honor, this is -- (inaudible).
21 THE COURT: I cannot hear the person who is 22 peaking. We cannot hear the person who is speaking. You're 23 very mooted. You have a bad connection. If you could speak
24 up and be clear, please.
25 MR. KNAUSS: Your Honor, this is Dan Knauss for

1 specifically to depose Dr. Jones, so that application is 2 denied.
3 Is there anything else?
4 MR. GUNTHER: No, Your Honor.
5 THE COURT: All right. Anything from the 6 defense?
7 MR. BELGAM: Nothing, Your Honor. Thank you.
8 THE COURT: All right. Have a good morning.
9 Thanks.

1 Amgen. Can you hear me now?
2 THE COURT: Barely. Are you on a cellphone?
3 MR. KNAUSS: I apologize, Your Honor. I'm on a
4 cellphone, yes.
5 THE COURT: So going forward, don't call the 6 Court on a cellphone in this case because we can't hear you.
7 Do you want to get somebody else to speak for you?
8 MS. RHYU: Your Honor, this is Michelle Rhyu.
9 If you can't hear Dan, I would be happy to address. Can you
10 hear me?
11 THE COURT: We can. Thank you.
12 MS. RHYU: Okay. Well, we agree with Your 13 Honor's ruling. I just want to clarify that for the reason
14 that we sought Leyland-Jones' deposition when we did is that 15 Genentech had produced evidence six weeks after the close of 16 fact discovery and that is when we were pursuing that 17 deposition at that time. It would be very prejudicial to 18 Amgen at this point to permit the additional discovery that 19 Genentech is seeking.
20 THE COURT: Okay.
21 MS. RHYU: Genentech is -- I don't want to say
22 any more, Your Honor. I understand their position.
23 THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Gunther, just to 24 clarify, you know, you're asking to take additional 25 discovery after fact discovery is long closed, and
